Swim for a million pennies for the James Whale Fund

Thanks a million!

Help raise a million pennies for cancer patients

This February the James Whale Fund for Kidney Cancer is hoping to raise a million pennies (that's £10,000) to help people suffering from kidney cancer.

Kidney cancer can affect people for all ages – in children it's known as Wilms' Tumour. We need to raise more money so that we can recruit specialist kidney cancer research scientists to help fight the disease.

To take part simply ask your friends and family to sponsor you to swim as many lengths as possible during the month of February.

Start now by registering on our website, email to takepart@jameswhalefund.org or write to the address below. Thank you and good luck. We're looking forward to hearing from you.
